City's Suggested Mission Bay Area Plans Outlined

City plans for the development of the Mission Bay area were given in tentative outline to the Ocean Beach Kiwanis club Tuesday evening by Glen Rick, the newly appointed city planning director.

After pointing out that he was thinking out loud and that no final decision had been reached on any of the plans, he declared that the particular projects most considered at present are the following:

1. Channeling along the south shore of the bay from the point where the San Diego river now empties into the bay straight out to the ocean at Mission Bay bridge, in order to eliminate dumping by the river of debris and sand into the bay; a project estimated to cost $3,500,000, of which the federal government would stand $2,000,000, the remaining cost to be borne locally.
2. Tied in with the river channel project would be two jetties out into the ocean from Mission Bay bridge, one on the north side of the proposed channel and one on the south. Cost of the two he said had been estimated at around $200,000.
3. Creation of a yacht club harbor in the western part of the bay, along the east side of Mission Bay community, by dredging, and using the material to extend the shore line there further east into the bay.
4. Creation of a motor boat harbor and race course in the northeast part of the bay, also by dredging and filling.
5. Increasing by 20 acres of fill-in on the bay side, the parking area near the Mission Bay amusement center.

As for improvement of the beach along Ocean Beach community, no definite plans have as yet been considered, declared Mr. Rick, and until the beach has been stabilized by the jetties mentioned such plans are difficult to make and largely out of the realm of good engineering.

The idea of making the southeast part of the bay into an airport has been practically abandoned as not feasible, he said.

The speaker was introduced by J. R. Lowmes, program chairman. Visitors at the meeting included Dick Barbour of the San Diego club, and Stanley Brauchler, Ocean Beach jeweler.

Donations can be made at Kraft's, Bank of America, Schneider's, Market Basket, Ocean Beach Hardware, and Tony's.

"We greatly prefer a large number of donations rather than the whole amount be given by just a few," President Lloyd Greeson of the Chamber of Commerce reports.

Sand Filling In Again On Beach At Foot Of Newport

Old Man Ocean is again doing a good turn to the Ocean Beach community. For the past two weeks the waves and the tides have been bringing in sand to the beach at the foot of Newport avenue and for at least a block north, and in the past three days as much as a foot of sand has been deposited there, reports Lou C. Fleetwood, senior lifeguard stationed at Ocean Beach. In fact, these deposits of the sand are the greatest in at least four years, he said, and "unless we get a shift of currents the sand will continue to deposit there," he said Wednesday. The deposits, however, he indicated, are at the expense of sandy beaches farther north along the shore line.

As a result the rocks that have been exposed on the beach at the foot of Newport are again covered and swimming is once more permitted in that block as far south as the point at the Silver Spray plunge, Fleetwood announced. The white flags of safety, accordingly, have been moved to indicate the new swimming area. Red flags, where stationed, of course, mean danger, he said.

"These regulations will go into effect in about four weeks after proper advertising of the question to comply with the law is made," Mr. Titlow stated. He was accompanied to the hearing before the commission Wednesday by Chas. D. Lehigh, the two representing the Ocean Beach petitioners. Deeds to Property For Recreation Center Accepted

San Diego city this week accepted deeds to the property that is to be used for the new recreation center for Ocean Beach, at Santa Monica and Ebers streets, Chairman J. F. Roberts of the Community Civic committee reported Tuesday. The property to be used for the center composes a total of 15 lots, and now belongs to the city.

He announces that a recreation rally, at which the committee hopes to have the desired $10,000 fund raised ready to present to the city, will be held Tuesday evening, August 29. The rally will be held in the auditorium of the elementary school. Plan is to complete the campaign by that date.

"Response to the appeal for this worth while project is very good," Roberts said Tuesday. "Everyone is providing enthusiastic support, and we now have every reason to believe that the total asked for will be raised."

Commenting on the financial campaign now being made, Mrs. D. C. Muchmore, one of the leading members of the committee in charge said Wednesday that the "money spent for this type of recreation for the children is a life-time investment. What is it worth to our community for our children to have an all-year round recreation center? That should be the basis of our contributions. "When we in Ocean Beach generally show our willingness to invest our money in this worthy enterprise, we of the committee are confident that the city will provide the lion's share of the cost of the construction as well as for the purchase of the site, and that there also will be some federal funds forthcoming."

Nazi Crisis Heightens as Allies Break East-West Defense Fronts; U.S. Tightens Net on New Guinea

Normandy—Having extinguished fire which destroyed ammunition truck at left, Doughboys resume charge under fire near St. Lo.

EUROPE:
Yank Break-Through

With the harassed Germans holding down British gains on the eastern end of the Normandy beachhead, U. S. troops unleashed a powerful assault on the western sector to break through the Nazis' first-line defenses and force an enemy withdrawal along a 40-mile front.

With heavy bombers preparing the ground for the big offensive with an earth-shaking attack that buried many of the German soldiers and showered dirt over their guns, U. S. armored forces then rode into battle to exploit the breach in the defenses. As the enemy pulled out, U. S. fighters and fighter-bombers swooped low to shoot up the retreating columns.

On the eastern end of the front, Nazi Marshal Rommel threw in a succession of counter-attacks to curtail the British advance south of Caen, with fighting see-sawing as one side would go into action when the force of the other's initial assault had been worn off.

As Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, 61, watched the ground forces he had built up in action in Normandy, he was killed by enemy fire.

Renowned for having reorganized the old "square" division of 20,000 men into the modern "triangular" unit of 15,000, and one of the leaders in the development of powerful, mobile anti-tank guns to combat the armored battle-wagons, General McNair had received Gen. George Marshall's praise as the "brains of the army."

A soldier for 41 years and veteran of the Mexican campaign and World War I, General McNair was commander of U. S. ground forces before being sent abroad recently on a secret assignment. While observing the North African fighting in 1943, he was wounded by shell fragments.

Near Warsaw

Capital of old Poland and deep inside the Germans' defense lines, the ancient city of Warsaw reverberated to Russian guns as the Reds pressed their offensive on the central sector of the 800-mile eastern front.

While the Russian spearheads pointed almost halfway across old Poland, Allied troops drew up in Italy for a grand assault upon the enemy's "Gothic Line," first of his defenses guarding the northern plains. Taking advantage of the mountainous terrain on the approaches to their new fortification system, the Germans resisted stubbornly in heavy delaying action.

As German lines stiffened on the northern end of the eastern front, and Hungarian troops slowed up the Russ drive in the Carpathian foothills in the south, the full weight of the Reds' advance was thrown into the central sector, where the open plains gave the Nazis no natural cover.

DROUTH:
Partly Broken

Although varying rainfall broke an extended drouth in the Ohio and middle Mississippi river valleys to help bumper plantings along, the eastern coastal sector from New England to Maryland suffered from continuing dry weather.

With corn tasseling and new ears appearing; soybeans starting to fill, and pastures drying, the wet weather arrived in the Midwest at a critical time.

Although the rainfall pushed the corn along in Kansas, an important part of the estimated 207,918,000 bushel wheat crop was threatened with ruin by moisture as it lay in the field because of a lateness in harvesting and shortage of facilities for moving the grain to market.

PACIFIC:
Japs Wilt

Bringing all of their superior firepower into play, U. S. forces in the far Pacific continued to tighten their foothold on Japan's inner ring of defenses around the Marianas islands, while farther to the south in New Guinea desperate enemy detachments tried futilely to crack the iron ring General MacArthur has been fastening about them.

As big U. S. naval guns tore into enemy emplacements inland to supplement heavy artillery fire, U. S. troops bore down on Tinian island in the Marianas, while other American units broke up frantic Jap counterattacks to consolidate their hold on Guam, one of the first U. S. possessions to fall to the enemy after Pearl Harbor.

By establishing beachheads all along the northern New Guinea coast, General MacArthur succeeded in trapping thousands of Japanese troops in between, and many of these were attempting to upset the American lines before the steel noose could be drawn around them tighter.

U. S. LAND:
Disposal Program

Government decision to auction off 8,000,000 acres of surplus farm land originally required for war purposes, has created a mild tempest in Washington, D. C., with the Farmers' Union insisting on the Farm Security administration's handling of the disposal as part of its tenant-purchasing program.

Under plans of Surplus Property Administrator William L. Clayton, the Reconstruction Finance corporation is to supervise the program, with appraisals submitted by local experts; sales made as promptly as possible without disrupting the market; former owners given opportunity to repurchase sites, and tracts broken up into individual units.

Spearheading the Farmers' Union opposition, President James G. Patton declared that Clayton's plan would lead to dominance of the program by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with control over permanent resources by big interests.

Of the $59,004,006 worth of surplus property disposed of up to mid-July, no real estate was included. Aircraft and aircraft equipment made up the bulk of the sales, the RFC reported.

CIO:
Political Power

Prepared to raise up to $3,000,000 for the forthcoming elections, and planning to organize neighborhood political groups with the assistance of union members, the CIO's Political Action committee looms as a powerful, influencing factor in the 1944 campaigns.

Headed by Russian-born Sidney Hillman, chairman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, the CIO's Political Action committee calls for: All-out aid to returned servicemen; full employment after the war at fair wages; good housing; medical care and schooling for all; equality of opportunity, and an adequate social security system.

First objective of the committee is to register every eligible voter for the fall elections, and it reportedly has spent a substantial part of $300,000 in this work, with another $400,000 available for immediate use.

"Love thy neighbor—and organize him!" says the committee.

American Troops Land at Harbors on Guam

Guam, first American possession to fall to the Japs, is back under control of the military authorities. After the U. S. naval task forces subjected Jap installations to intermittent bombardment, the marines and army troops established beachheads. The Yanks drove northward and southward on the west coast, captured airports destroyed during the bombardment, killed hundreds of Japanese, destroyed tanks and installations and took possession of all major objectives.

Silage Crops
 Cut silage crops as short as is practicable. The shorter they are cut the better they will pack into the silo. Pack closely all silage made from hay crops.

Feeding Value
 Farmers recognize that their crop land yearly becomes more depleted in such minerals as calcium and phosphorus unless these elements are returned to the soil. However, they often overlook the fact that the feeding value of crops produced on soils low in minerals is not as high as that of crops raised on land adequately stocked with calcium, phosphorus and other minerals. Fertilization of the soil is therefore profitable not only because crop yields are increased but also because the grain and forage produced have higher feeding values and are more beneficial in maintaining health of animals than are crops produced on soil poor in minerals.

Chicken Feathers
 The U. S. bureau of animal industry has announced a practical method of preserving wet chicken feathers. The treatment uses 15 pounds of common salt and a pint of commercial concentrated hydrochloric acid, dissolved in 30 gallons of water, for each 15 pounds of wet feathers to be preserved. After repeated tests, the feathers were in excellent condition after a month in shipment and storage. The preservation makes possible the industrial use of millions of pounds of chicken feathers formerly wasted or used as fertilizer.

Water Essential

Two-thirds of the human body is water, that is, about 12 gallons. The normal human brain is 85 per cent water; the blood is 90 per cent water; and even the bones are 50 per cent water. Without water to drink, man would suffer miserably and in two or three days' time would die.

Clear Cutting

Clear cutting is the removal of all the mature timber from an area at one time. Management for continuous forest production presupposes that clear cutting will be followed by provisions to assure new forest growth by seed from surrounding stands, by seeds which have been left on the ground, by planting small trees, or by direct seeding.

Organic Material Helps Make Better Seed Bed

Most garden soils contain but little rotted vegetable material, such as the tops and roots of plants. Mixed with the soil, this organic material makes a better seedbed, and makes the soil hold more moisture and plant nutrients, will be easier to work, and will provide good drainage.

Gardeners who have no ready source of manure to apply to the soil each year, find a compost pile particularly useful. All kinds of material may be used in building the compost pile in some corner where it will be screened by buildings or by plant growth.

The tops of harvested crops, weeds that have not gone to seed, manure, straw, leaves, potato peelings and other plant refuse, and commercial fertilizer to speed the rotting may all be used. Some gardeners add layers of soil also, to speed rotting. Keep the top of the compost pile flat, so rain water will soak in. If the compost gets dry, add water to speed the rotting. If the pile is spaded or forked over twice in a year, it will make a better mixed compost. If the garden soil is heavy and clayey, coal ashes from which the clinkers have been screened, may be added to the compost.

HOTELS: Service in hotels, already below minimum peacetime standards, will be still further reduced by order of the War Manpower commission. Hereafter hotels must be classified as "locally needed," to obtain the WMC's help in finding employees. Furthermore hotels may not employ men under 45, except in special cases, the WMC ruled.

MARRIAGE BY MAIL: As far as the army finance department is concerned, marriages by mail are valid if the state in which the contract is made recognizes them as such. The comptroller-general gave this opinion in a case involving a wife's allowance payments. He cited many legal opinions on the subject, dating back to the time of the first World war.

'CITIZENSHIP' TRAINING FOR U. S. YOUTH

IN 1917 A GROUP representing many lines of industry, banking, transportation and the professions, sat around a large table in a Chicago club. They had met to discuss ways and means of securing congressional enactment of a national universal military training law, a law that would put all American boys, as they attained the age of 19 years, into an army camp for a portion of one year.

At that meeting I told those men they could not secure the enactment of any measure entitled "compulsory military training." If they would change the title to "citizenship training," with no change in the provisions of the bill other than the substitution of "citizenship" for "military," they could create a sentiment that would force it through congress. Industrial workers and the farmers would not support, but would oppose, any provision for making soldiers of their sons. They would support legislation for making better citizens. To bring the boys of all, so called, classes of people together, to live for a number of months under exact conditions, would break down the then growing tendency to class distinctions, and make for a more homogeneous citizenship.

What was true in 1917 is equally true today. Today, as then, the mass of the American people will support any measure for making better American citizenship by instilling in our youth a better knowledge of what citizenship means, and the advantages it offers. Put the boys into barracks, or under canvas, together, under exact conditions for all, where distinction is earned by merit alone, and the future of our Republic would be largely solved.

HOW TO MAKE DREAMS COME TRUE

When the war is over! Then we will have a new car and gas enough to go when and where we wish. We will have the kind of food we want when we want it. We will build that new home of which we have been dreaming. We will make that long deferred visit to Sister Sarah. The wife can have the washing machine she has talked about. We will have and do all of these things provided we have been buying war bonds and keeping them. They will provide the money with which to do things, when the war is over.

REAL VALUE OF PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

WHEN A SERIOUS NATIONAL EMERGENCY arises is no time to play with theoretical experiments. Action, definite and immediate, is needed. That was the condition of the government in the production of explosives when we faced a global war. It was trained, recognized "know how," not theories, that was needed. The government could provide the money but it had to turn to established private industry to secure the "know how." The Du Pont company provided that, and expended hundreds of millions of dollars in the building and operation of explosive plants. The cost to the government for that "know how," the product of years of experience, was but one and one-half per cent of the total of the money expended. That is the value of private enterprise.

WHAT WAR BUDGET MEANS TO INDIVIDUAL

THE PRESIDENT tells us next year's war budget will total some $5 billion dollars. To us, as individuals, such a figure is meaningless. We cannot comprehend even one billion. Such a sum cannot, in any way, apply to us as individuals. Until it is presented in amounts we can understand, figures might as well not be quoted. Had the President told us next year's war expenditures would amount to a bit more than $650 for each of us, men, women and children, to pay, we would have been more interested and given the statement greater consideration. That is what it is expected the war will cost each of us, or the children of today's children. Each will pay his share. It is not only a rich man's debt.

THE CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE IS BEING petitioned to pass a law that will prohibit closed shop contracts with labor unions. They want to make it possible for a man or woman to have a job without paying tribute if he does not wish to do so. Such laws are in effect in a number of states.

SOME SEEK a public service career because of their desire to serve and a belief in their ability to serve; others get into politics because of their wish for an easy job and a place on a payroll. We do not need those who merely wish a place on a payroll.

THE NO CONTRIBUTIONS FOR PARTISAN political purposes from either corporations or labor unions is a good law. It should be strictly enforced, with application to both corporations and the unions.

Ordnance Keeps Army in Trim by Repairing Parts

LST Personnel From All Parts of Country Prove They Can Take It

By Ernie Pyle

IN NORMANDY.—One of the things the layman doesn't hear much about is the ordnance department. In fact it is one of the branches that even the average soldier is little aware of except in a vague way.

And yet the war couldn't keep going without it. For ordnance repairs all the vehicles of an army and furnishes all the ammunition for its guns.

Ernie Pyle

Today there are more vehicles in the American sector of our beachhead than in the average-sized American city. And our big guns on an average heavy day are shooting up more than $10,000,000 worth of ammunition. So you see ordnance has a man-sized job.

Ordnance personnel is usually about 6 or 7 per cent of the total men of an army. That means we have many thousands of ordnance men in Normandy. Their insignia is a flame coming out of a retort—nicknamed in the army "The Flaming Onion."

Ordnance operates the ammunition dumps we have scattered about the beachhead. But much bigger than its ammunition mission is ordnance's job of repair. Ordnance has 275,000 items in its catalog of parts, and the mere catalog itself covers a 20-foot shelf.

In a central headquarters here on the beachhead a modern filing system housed in big tents keeps records on the number and condition of 500 major items in actual use on the beachhead, from tanks to pistols.

We have scores of separate ordnance companies at work on the beachhead—each of them a complete firm within itself, able to repair anything the army uses.

Ordnance can lift a 30-ton tank as easily as it can a bicycle. It can repair a blown-up jeep or the intricate breech of a mammoth gun.

Some of its highly specialized repair companies are made up largely of men who were craftsmen in the same line in civil life. In these companies you will find the average age is much above the army average. You will find craftsmen in their late 40s, you'll find men with their own established businesses who were making $30,000 to $40,000 a year back home and who are now wearing sergeant's stripes. You'll find great soberness and sincerity, plus the normal satisfaction that comes from making things whole again instead of destroying them.

You will find an IQ far above the average for the army. It has to be that way or the work would not get done.

You'll find mechanical work being done under a tree that would be housed in a $50,000 shop back in America. You'll find men working 16 hours a day, then sleeping on the ground, who because of their age don't even have to be here at all.

Ordnance is one of the undramatic branches of the army. They are the mechanics and the craftsmen, the fixers and the suppliers. But their job is vital. Ordinarily they are not in a great deal of danger. There are times on newly won and congested beachheads when their casualty rate is high, but once the war settles down and there is room for movement and dispersal it is not necessary or desirable for them to do their basic work within gun range.

Our ordnance branch in Normandy has had casualties. It has two small branches which will continue to have casualties—its bomb-disposal squads and its retriever companies that go up to pull out crippled tanks under fire.

But outside of those two sections, if your son or husband is in ordnance in France you can feel fairly easy about his returning to you. I don't say that to belittle ordnance in any way but to ease your worries if you have someone in this branch of the service overseas.

Ordnance is set up in a vast structure of organization the same as any other army command. The farther back you go the bigger become the outfits and the more elaborately equipped and more capable of doing heavy, long-term work.

Every infantry or armored division has an ordnance company with it all the time. This company does quick repair jobs. What it hasn't time or facilities for doing it hands on back to the next echelon in the rear.

The division ordnance companies hit the beach on D-Day. The next echelon back began coming on D-Day plus four. The great heavy outfits arrived somewhat later.

Today the wreckage of seven weeks of war is all in hand, and in one great depot after another it is being worked out—repaired or rebuilt or sent back for salvage until everything possible is made available again to our men who do the fighting. In later columns I'll take you along to some of these repair companies that do the vital work.

The cook on LST No. 392, on which I came to France, was a beefy, good-natured fellow named Edward Strucker of Barberton, Ohio, which is near Akron.

Cooking on these transport ships is a terrible job, for you suddenly have to turn out twice as much food as normally. But Eddie is not the worrying type, and he takes it all in his stride.

Eddie has a brother named Charles in the army engineers, and in the past year has been lucky enough to run into him four times—once in Africa, once in Sicily, and twice in Italy.

One of those small-world experiences happened to me, too, while on that ship. We lay at anchor in a certain harbor a couple of days before sailing for France. On the second day I was in the washroom shaving when a sailor came in and said there was a Commander Greene who wanted to see me in the captain's cabin.

The only Greene I could think of who might be a commander in the navy was Lieut. Terry Greene, whom I had known in my Greenwich Village days. You didn't know I ever had any Greenwich Village days? Well, don't get excited, because they weren't very lurid anyway.

At any rate I went to the captain's cabin, and sure enough it was the same Terry Greene all right. By some strange coincidence we had both got 17 years older in the meantime.

Greene held a very important position in the convoy. He was tickled to death with his assignment, for he had been in the States almost the whole war and was about to go nuts for some action.

I haven't seen him on this side of the Channel to discuss it, but I'm afraid our trip over wasn't as exciting as he would have liked. But you can't please everybody, and it was just tame enough to suit me fine.

One of the gun crew is Seaman John Lepper of Hershey, Pa. He is about the oldest man in the crew. He is 34, and has three daughters—17, 15 and 13—and yet he got drafted last November and here he is sailing across the English channel and helping shoot down German planes. It still seems a little odd to him. It is quite a contrast to the building game, which he had been in.

Also on this ship I ran into one of my home-towners from Albuquerque, Electrician's Mate Harold Lampton. His home actually is in Farmington, N. M., but he worked for the telephone company at Albuquerque, installing new phones. Now he is the electrician for this ship. He has been in the navy for two years and overseas for more than a year. He is a tall, dark, quiet fellow who knows a great deal more about the Southwest than I do. He said he has driven past our house many times, and we had long nostalgic talks about the desert and Indian jewelry and sunsets. We are both tired of being where we are and we wish we were back on the Rio Grande.

Among the soldiers I talked to on the LST were Corp. Loyce Gilbert of Spring Hill, La., Pfc. Oscar Davis of Troy, N. C., and Pvt. Floyd Woodville of Baltimore.

I asked if the General was still at Walter Reed hospital. He said yes, and that his father was very excited because they had just built him a penthouse on the hospital roof.

I have been told that despite his age and poor health General Pershing is very close to this war, and that some of our general staff call on him almost daily for advice and counsel.

Pyle Finds General Pershing's Son Making Good

Among the army personnel aboard our ship was Capt. Warren Pershing, son of General Pershing. The captain, who is not a professional soldier at all, started out as a private in this war. He is in the engineers. He is a tall, blond, regular fellow and everybody likes him. He leans over backward not to trade on his father's name. He doesn't speak of the General unless you ask him.

Japs Still Powerful, but Position Grows Weaker

Shipping Losses Reduce Flow of Material; Efficiency of Pilots Suffers From Poor Tactics in Combat.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Paradoxically, on the eve of what may be the greatest land battle America has ever fought, this country is turning its eyes eastward.

The nervous Berlin radio has already announced that the war in Europe may be decided in three months. That statement lends color to the hints that General Rommel, the one Nazi commander who seems to see eye to eye with the Fuehrer and yet is apparently permitted to work out his strategy according to military science and not Hitlerian intuition, is going to fight it out, win or lose, along the outer edges of Normandy. What effect the events following the attempt on the life of Hitler will have on the internal situation in Germany—or what the incident indicates about Germany within, remains to be seen.

Whether the German collapse comes before the leaves turn, or after the snow flies, the next weeks will see emphasis placed on the Pacific campaign. It is not beyond the realm of possibility that peace can be wrung from Japan well within the current 12-month. The fall of Tojo and his cabinet indicates the gravity with which the Japs are looking ahead.

First, let us examine the material upon which Japan counts to make up her sinews of strength.

She has managed to keep her main battle fleet "in being" as the phrase goes. Like Germany, toward the end of the last war, in spite of heavy losses in auxiliary craft, she still has enough of her big war wagons to stage a "battle of Jutland," or at least to attempt it.

Second: Japan still has a large, well-trained, well-equipped army. That army has never been subject to the wear and tear of sustained battle with an equal. It is true that there are many retreats which we have read about when the Japs have staged what was advertised as a big offensive and which petered out with the flag of Nippon back where it started from. However, it is generally agreed among military men that, except perhaps in the recent abortive morale drive into India, and in Burma where General Stilwell and the Chinese armies are moving to a junction, the Japs have usually done just about what they expected to do and could have done more if they had made up their minds to it. For the most part they have not tried to win territory and hold it. They have tried to wear down the Chinese army, contribute to the impoverishment and the weakening of the Chinese government. This they have accomplished to no little degree. They have likewise reduced the number of actual and potential American airbases in China. They have made a possible land invasion of the Chinese coast harder for the Allies. Such an invasion is considered inevitable and essential to Allied victory.

On the debit side, there are these items:

First, is one word written in the boldest hand because of the thing it symbolizes—SAIPAN.

U. S. Planes Within Easy Bombing Range of Japan

The capture of this island base within easy bombing range of Japan means many things. It tends to neutralize what heretofore has been Japan's advantage in destroying American bases in China. It brings the war figuratively, as well as literally, close to Japan. It registers the success of a strategy which has smashed Japan's outer defenses, her great Pacific island empire. It proves that "island-hopping" is unnecessary. This means that the remaining Japanese strongholds such as Truk, and other outposts do not have to be knocked off one by one, they can be by-passed and starved out, if necessary.

Saipan in American hands means also that the B-29's which have already sounded their warning to the Jap home folk will soon be in active operation on a scale hitherto unapproached.

Germany, like Japan, has at this writing a powerful land army.

But Japan, like Germany, has a vanishing air force. Note the corollary and see how it applies to Japan. The Allied air force crippled the German air force. And as Nazi fighter-defense dwindled, so the weight of sheer numbers reduced the effectiveness of German anti-aircraft defense and offense, due to the bombing of her plane factories and plane-part factories and to the destruction of her pilots. Germany's next greatest weakness is lack of gas and oil. This has been caused by the destruction (by the Allied air force again) of oil wells, gasoline refineries and synthetic oil plants.

Proofs of the effects of this bombing are not limited to photographs showing the effect of Allied air raids on ball-bearing plants, on the Ploesti oil wells, on the synthetic oil plants and the refineries. It is shown in the German tanks and other war vehicles in perfect condition abandoned and captured because they ran out of fuel.

Raids, really shake-down cruises of the giant B-29's directed against Japanese industrial plants, have just begun.

Japan is already suffering from shortages of essential materials. Her great stolen storehouses of the Philippines and the Dutch Indies are a long way from home. The transportation problem is a terrible one—Japanese shipping has been subjected to terrific losses by our submarines and planes.

Distances Shrink in Far Pacific Warfare

Is Japan in any better position to resist air attack than Germany? The answer seems to be "no." Her greatest defense is distance, and distances in the Pacific theater have shrunk at a speed far greater than most people dreamed was possible.

Japan's next defense—fighter planes—has suffered in greater proportion than was expected. The quality, as well as the quantity of Jap planes has fallen off so that Japan has become stingy in her use of fighters as the Germans. The quality of her pilots has greatly deteriorated. And this point blends into another. Japan simply has not the strategic know-how of aviation. When she does send her bombers and fighters out in great numbers, they are no match for Allied power, man or plane.

There is no question that as Japan's resistance weakens the Allied striking power is increased. It is impossible to mention details, of course, for security reasons and it would be unwise to assemble known facts and figures concerning the type of material manufactured and the disposition of forces which, taken together, would indicate clearly enough how the weight of Allied might is being distributed.

We can quote the statement of Prime Minister Curtin of Australia, for instance, who says that "this year" British forces in great numbers will be transferred to the Pacific theater.

Finally, there is a third factor which seems to be a hastening of the end. It is difficult to speak of "morale" in connection with Japan since the people are told how and what to think. But the tone of the official utterances has taken on a decidedly gloomy note. Even as to the shifts in command—the fall of the Tojo cabinet—which might have been hailed with a cheerful fanfare, the phrases were grave and grim.

It is also reported, from sources in touch with Japan's inner politics, that the Jap militarists are waiting hopefully to see if the Allies grant enough leniency in their terms to Germany to justify surrender on their part. Although it was emphatically denied in Tokyo it is still believed here that the Japanese representative to the Holy See laid a tentative peace offer before the Pope.

Briefly, then, as the conservatively optimistic observers in Washington look at the picture rapidly forming in the Pacific, they see several factors which heretofore worked toward a long drawn out struggle in the Far East either removed or altered. First, the theory that the Allies must fight their way to victory, sea-mile by sea-mile, island by island, has been completely exploded. Second, Japan's air force has been measurably defeated. Third, the strategy of a blow at the heart of the empire rather than attrition at its perimeter is now considered a reasonable certainty.

ATHLETE'S FOOT NEWS

"80.6% of sufferers showed

CLINICAL IMPROVEMENT

after only 10-day treatment

with SORETONE

Foster D. Snell, Inc., well-known consulting chemists, have just completed a test with a group of men and women suffering from Athlete's Foot. These people were told to use Soretone. At the end of only a ten-day test period, their feet were examined by a physician. We quote from the report:

"After the use of Soretone according to the directions on the label for a period of only ten days, 80.6% of the cases showed clinical improvement of an infection which is most stubborn to control."

Improvements were shown in the symptoms of Athlete's Foot—the itching, burning, redness, etc. The report says:

"In our opinion Soretone is of very definite benefit in the treatment of this disease, which is commonly known as 'Athlete's Foot.'"

So if Athlete's Foot troubles you, don't temporize! Get Soretone! McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Connecticut.

BRIEFS... by Baukhage

The Tokyo radio makes a point of accenting the friendliness of Japan's relations with Germany but Japanese films make it clear that the Axis pact can be carried only so far, and no farther.

Seventy-five American Red Cross Home Service scholarships in accredited schools of social work now are available.

Unlike American movie heroes, the Japanese film hero usually doesn't win the heroine in such a way as to live happily ever after. Japanese movies have a tendency to end on an unhappy note of sorrow or frustration with the hero and heroine being torn apart by some incident that exalts family duty and sacrifice above their own personal desire.

WHAT'S BUZZIN'!

By CHERIE.

Your nose reporter is back again after a de-lightful ten days at Lake Arrowhead. Ah! What a heavenly spot! Altho, I did return a casualty, so to speak . . .
"Nero" (our Great Dane) decided to go one way, and I another.
"Nero" won, and I went flying through the air with the greatest of ease! No broken bones, thank Goodness!Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walsh, now of Pacific Beach, are making weekly trips to Ocean Beach, their family home, shopping and meeting friends and neighbors. The Walshes are former proprietors of the Newport Liquor Store, now owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams. Mr. Walsh is now affiliated with the Ryan Aeronautics.Did you see "Johnny" on his recent visit to Ocean Beach. (I have reference to Johnny of the "Johnny Presents" on the Philip Morris program). At any rate, he was a midget, and he wore a red coat with brass buttons, topped off with his little "monkey cap"! AND, he did give out the cigarettes. Could have been a "stand in," but he was cute, wasn't he?"Betty" Brackett left August 1 for Jacksonville, Fla., to join her husband, Bill, who is stationed there in the Navy. . . . Alyce Paisin and little Barry left for Chicago this week to visit with Alyce and Harry's parents. . . .
Rollin Reed (Bank of America) has just acquired an Irish setter.
. . . Eric-Lee Cafe has been closed now for over a week due to illness. Hurry back, folks! . . . Geo.
Shields, Gerry Garrison, and Harold Sulek (also Guy Clough) are off to Green Valley Falls for some "camping out." Remember, fellas, there's no place like home! . . . Martin Murphy and Rev. Jim Roberts' names were vice-versa'd in the Union write-up. . . . In the interim of my vacation, I see the O. B. Exchange has their "front" all dressed in bright yellow. Also,
Helen Patten (Books) occupies space directly opposite Joe E. wards (Flowers) now. . . . For clever advertising, we'd like to give the orchids to Hilmen's (Used Furniture).Here's some book and movie gossip you may enjoy . . .
"The Last Time I Saw Paris," by Elliot Paul, a 1942 Guild selection, has recently been banned by our "touchy" Boston booksellers. This always arouses our curiosity! . . . The full casting of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," by Betty Smith, will be—Dorothy McGuire as "Katie,"
Joan Blondell as "Aunt Sissy," James Dunn as "Johnny Nolan" and Peggy Ann Garner as "Francie." Incidentally, "I-B Soldier" just made its debut. This book was written by Private Joe Jones, husband of Betty Smith.
Just runs in the family. . . . Did I tell you 20th Century Fox has acquired the screen rights to Ben Ames Williams' popular "Leave
Her to Heaven" for 100,000 simo-leons! . . . With the exception of "Last Time I Saw Paris" theforegoing books have all been reviewed here, and as soon as I am able to obtain this book, I'll give you the lowdown!Mr. Miltonberger dropped in to say: "The success achieved by our Italian forces at Pisa is indicative that the famous tower has a "leaning" toward the Allied cause!"

Are YOU DOING
ALL YOU CAN?

This is a good question to ask yourself as the tempo of war is stepped up . . . because the need for extra effort on the home front is ever increasing, too.

Right here in San Diego . . . on YOUR home front . . . the need for more bus and street car

Can't YOU take a place in this war work which is so vital to the continuous production of bombers for our men on the battle fronts?

MR. WINKLE GOES TO WAR

By THEODORE
PRATT

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Forty-four-year-old Wilbert Winkle, who operates an auto repair shop in back of his home, is notified by his draft board that he is in 1-A. He breaks the bad news to his domineering wife, Amy, and tramps off to work without kissing her goodby. Neighbors call the next night after seeing his picture on the front page of the Evening Standard, and commiserate with him. The night before leaving, Mrs. Winkle tells Wilbert she is worried that he may take up with other women but he tells her she has nothing to worry about. Mr. Winkle takes the lead in the draft parade and on arriving in camp is given his "physical." He is ashamed of his skinny physique.

CHAPTER VI

At the desk of the Chief Medical Examiner, he was informed, casually, that he had been accepted for General Military Service.

It was a little difficult to realize it. He was dazed. He felt that his dyspepsia had been insured. He still suffered from chronic indigestion no matter how lightly it was regarded.

All except three of the Springfield contingent were accepted. Freddie and Jack were among the successful ones — or unsuccessful — whichever way you looked at it, a matter depending on how far your patriotism went.

After retrieving their clothes and hiding their nakedness, they were marched outside. Lined up in the open, they took the oath of enlistment. Mr. Winkle felt very solemn about swearing to bear true faith and allegiance to this country.

Mr. Winkle saw what his future bedroom was like.

In the clothing depot they were turned over to a little Sergeant no larger than Mr. Winkle. He had a wizened face and a great many service stripes on his sleeve. In a dry good-humored voice he instructed them to change into something more appropriate to their surroundings and new standing.

Sergeant Czeideskrowski took them, with more new soldiers from other contingents, to a receiving barracks in the Reception Center. Here they would stay for several days, and here Mr. Winkle saw what his future bedroom was like.

He was appalled. Not that the quarters weren't good. Indeed, they were better than those any other Army in the world could boast.

Even in his somewhat depressed state Mr. Winkle ate more than he usually did at home, which he knew would not please Amy. He didn't mention anything about this when the Alphabet, in motherlike fashion, saw to it that they filled out post-cards to their families announcing the good news of their being in the Army.

Finally, for that day, came instruction in bed making. After an hour of experimenting, during which most of them believed he could make his bed perfectly in the dark, Sergeant Czeideskrowski observed that none of them would pass inspection, but their efforts would do for them to sleep that night.

Lying in the darkness, with some of the men talking back and forth in whispers, Mr. Winkle felt unnatural. He was no longer Wilbert Winkle, captain of his own soul or body. He belonged to an immense, fearsome, mysterious organization called the Army whose purpose was to fight other men to the death.

Mr. Winkle fell in line with the other men on the company street. It was barely light. It was cold. All about were the dim outlines of buildings. A vast rustle of men and their movements and voices spread in all directions, ghostly and weird.

Shivering, Mr. Winkle wondered if this could be only a bad dream. Surely he would soon awaken in his own warm bed with Amy beside him, telling him it was time to get up after a good night's rest instead of the fifteen minutes' nap he felt he had.

Instead, he heard Sergeant Czeideskrowski calling his name in the roll.

"H-here," Mr. Winkle quavered. "Tindall!"

"I guess I'm here," Freddie answered. "I'm not sure."

"Answer 'here' only," the Alphabet ordered. "We'll try again. Tindall!"

"Here," Freddie replied. In a low mutter he added, "What's left of me."

The Alphabet strode over to stand in front of Freddie. He took out a little black notebook from his pocket, wrote in it, and said:

"Private Tindall, because it's you, and you ain't had the Articles of War read to you yet, especially Article Sixty-five providing punishment for insubordination to a noncommissioned officer—which is me—we'll just set a record for the camp. You're getting K P duty on your second day. You will become famous for this."

Mr. Winkle was almost glad to see how wrong Freddie was in his attitude, and how painful this was going to make it for him. Then he felt guilty at having such an unworthy sentiment.

"Pettigrew!"

Teeth chattered. Between clicks, Jack called that he was present.

Mr. Winkle had a sense of floating through the rest of that day. He remained in a daze from the shock of entering the Army. He supposed it was the same with the other men, but he didn't notice them very much.

At the dispensary Mr. Winkle was inoculated for so many things that he couldn't keep track of them all. The faintness induced by being pricked on one arm was counteracted by being pricked on the other arm immediately afterward. He enjoyed only one of the examinations. That was the Mechanical Aptitude Test. He was happy to wade right through this, answering nearly every question with ease and certainty, while others scratched their heads.

In the afternoon, when they were given individual interviews, he hoped to learn what might be done with him. The interviewer drew him out about the work he had done in civil life. He showed a mild interest in Mr. Winkle's history as an accountant, but mostly he asked Mr. Winkle to talk about himself as a repairer of anything and the fact that he had his own shop.

"I think we'll have a place for you," he said, quite as if Mr. Winkle only now had been accepted for the position, and hired.

The late afternoon was given to them to do as they pleased—within the confines of their barracks. That is, all except Freddie. An emissary of Sergeant Czeideskrowski, in the form of a Corporal, arrived to instruct Freddie to get into his fatigues and follow him. "We're going bubble dancing," the Corporal said.

Freddie, snorting and grumbling, decided to agree.

Jack was with two of the younger men, boys like himself. Solemnly they thumbed through their copies of The Soldier's Handbook, reading the instructions about what was, for most of them of their age, their first job.

Mr. Winkle looked about for companionship of his own. A few men looked as if they might be old enough for him, but he couldn't be sure. One of them passed by his cot, and Mr. Winkle, catching his glance, and for lack of anything else to say on the spur of the moment observed: "Well, here we are."

"Hah?" the man asked, staring blankly.

Mr. Winkle didn't pursue it, and the man passed on.

He realized just what an outsider he was going to be. He wrote a letter to Amy. He informed her that his bag would arrive home by express collect; it contained his rubbers, which she had better give to the scrap rubber drive. He instructed her to tell the Pettigrews that Jack was getting along fine—right now he was having a roughhouse with another boy. He assured Amy that he was all right. He just felt a little funny in his new life.

Sitting there alone on his cot, Mr. Winkle reflected that he felt more than a little funny.

There was an additional thing connected with what was going on, which he couldn't exactly analyze or express. It was connected in some way with the broad, general structure of the state of human affairs. It went beyond the possibility that man was a warring animal in spite of all his civilized refinements. Neither was it to be found in the concurrent theory that at certain intervals man needed to make war in order to pull himself down to his natural level, which he had made the mistake of exceeding.

Perhaps, thought Mr. Winkle, what he felt was contained in the fact that man had a will to die as well as a will to live, and that the present war was merely a grand expression of this. The world was bent on a mass suicide-pact, whose impulses would be spent only when millions had done away with themselves by the oblique methods employed.

Yet not even in that did he discover an explanation of the thing he felt. It was to be found in something much more simple than any such objective ideas, which were perhaps a little crazy, anyway, or at least too dangerous to entertain.

But he was sure there was something to express the situation in which he found himself, and that he would ultimately run across it. He decided to be on the lookout for it.

Private Tindall came in shortly after five, looking hot and not cutting a very attractive figure in his soiled dungarees. His thin line of mustache did not seem to fit this garment at all. Several of the men wanted to know what he had had to do.

Freddie glared at them disgustedly. "I washed floors," he snarled. "Me!"

Jack led the laugh that followed. Freddie strode over to him and without a word, drew back his fist and hit him.

Jack sat down on a cot, not hurt but angry.

Mr. Winkle had time to think that it was a good thing he had finished his letter mentioning Jack before the boy rose, again to battle Freddie.

From the doorway the voice of Alphabet was heard: "For fighting you'd be surprised what there is, Private Tindall. But this time we'll make it just the garbage detail for tomorrow."

After the Alphabet had written in his notebook and gone away, Freddie promised, "I'm going to kill him. From A to Z."

"If I don't get you first," Jack muttered.

"You," Freddie demanded, "and what other part of the Army? You and Pop, maybe?"

Mr. Winkle reflected that this was not the right outlook at all. It was hardly the true spirit of the reason they were here.

Mr. Winkle did not find a friend of his own age until he was shipped on a train to his Replacement Training Center. Camp Squibb was a thousand miles away from home. Mr. Winkle understood that this great distance was for the purpose of getting him away from family ties.

He was no happier at this than was Freddie Tindall when it was learned that Sergeant Czeideskrowski was to accompany and stay with them. It seemed that the Alphabet had been champing at the bit for having been put in what he referred to as the "desk job" of receiving draftees. He wanted active duty, and now he looked at it as a step toward this when he was assigned to new training troops.

Camp Squibb was a great deal like their first camp, except that it was much larger, stretching for miles across the flat bare land. It was the general belief that no one knew how large it was, nor where it began and ended. It had simply continued to be built until there were no boundaries at all. Men, it was said, had become lost in it and not yet found. Another rumor had it that in case of invasion the enemy was to be lured to Camp Squibb where, once caught in this trap, it would never find its way out.

"For fighting you'd be surprised what there is, Private Tindall . . ."

On the first afternoon in their new barracks, Mr. Winkle discovered Mr. Tinker. He was among those making up the platoon quartered on the ground floor. Mr. Winkle eyed the thickest man with a scowl on his broad face sitting on the next cot, and saw that here was a man of his own age.

They eyed each other. Mr. Winkle smiled briefly, and was given a frown. That wasn't encouraging. Nevertheless, Mr. Winkle spoke, introducing himself. He gave his age, glanced around, and observed, "I guess we're sort of two of a kind here."

"Yeah," the other man said in a deep voice.

Mr. Winkle offered the information that he was a married man. His look inquired if the same situation held true with his acquaintance.

"Naw," the man said.

There the matter rested for a moment, until the man suddenly announced his own name, which was Tinker, and his age, forty-two. He said he was a plumber.

Mr. Winkle asked him how he felt about being in the Army.

Food Problems Can Be Solved By Careful Cooking

Vegetable platters offer light summer eating possibilities. Arrange them in a pretty pattern with green beans or asparagus making a pattern with macaroni in the center and spaces filled in with corn kernels.

There's nothing like good food well prepared. It's a pleasure both to the cook who prepared it and also to the one fortunate enough to eat it.

Proper preparation is a matter of following rules carefully. That's why we have recipes carefully tested and with accurate directions given. Formerly, good cooks put in a lump of butter, a handful of flour, etc., but no one else could cook like they did.

Now we have recipes so that everyone can be a good cook as long as he follows directions.

Vegetables, to be perfection itself, must be cooked to doneness with just a bit of crispiness left in them. Pies must have a crust with flakiness that will melt in your mouth, with creamy smooth fillings or luscious juicy berry fillings.

Cakes are at their best with fluffy, fine grain texture, well flavored icings or frostings. Ice creams and sherbets should be frozen so that they are creamy and contain no ice particles.

And now, to get down to the business of preparing food with results such as I have just described. The first is an ice box cake with chocolate filling:

Chocolate Ice Box Cake.
(Serves 6)
4 squares unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup sugar
Dash of salt
1/4 cup hot water
4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 cup cream, or evaporated milk
2 dozen lady fingers

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sugar, salt and water, stirring until sugar is dissolved and mixture blended. Remove from boiling water; add egg yolks, one at a time, beating thoroughly. Place over boiling water and cook 2 minutes or until thickened, stirring constantly. Add vanilla and fold in egg whites. Chill. Fold in cream.

Line bottom and sides of a mold with lady fingers or strips of sponge cake. Turn chocolate mixture into mold and place remaining lady fingers on top. Chill 12 to 24 hours in refrigerator. If desired, add 1/4 cup walnut meats to chocolate mixture before turning into mold. Unmold.

There's a short-cut method to making finer, lighter cakes. If you want a real treat in making cakes, try the new method. Be sure ingredients have stood at room temperature for 2 hours or more so that shortening is soft and pliable:

Maraschino Cherry Cake.
Sift together in a bowl:
2 1/2 cups cake flour
3 3/4 or 4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups sugar
Add:
1/2 cup shortening
1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice

Lynn Says
Point Stretchers: For the vegetable course, combine two left-overs such as lima beans and corn; tomatoes and eggplant; peas and small onions; cauliflower with peas.

Stuffings stretch meats: prune and apple stuffing for roast duckling or veal; celery stuffing for lamb roll; oatmeal stuffing for pinwheel beef roll; and apple stuffing for roast pork or slices of ham.

Potatoes can stretch hamburgers or hash. Or, use leftover mashed or rice potatoes in stretching these meats.

Vegetables can stretch scrambled eggs. Try carrots, celery and onion.

*Peach Pie
*Recipes Given

16 maraschino cherries, cut into eighths
1/2 cup milk

Mix with electric mixer or by hand with spoon for 2 minutes, by the clock. Scrape bowl frequently.

Add:

4 egg whites
Continue beating for 2 minutes, scraping bowl frequently. Fold in 1/2 cup chopped nuts, if desired. Pour into 2 well-greased and floured 8-inch cake pans. Bake about 30 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven. When cool, ice with boiled or seven minutes icing.

The peach crop looks plentiful and luscious and it seems like part of it should go into those light, fruity pies:

*Peach Pie.
2 cups sliced peaches
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons butter
Dash of salt
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1 9-inch baked pastry shell

Sprinkle peaches with lemon juice and sugar. Cook slowly to extract juice. Mix juice with cornstarch and blend. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire. Add butter, salt and almond extract. Add peaches. Pour into pastry shell. Chill. Garnish with cream or piped meringue if desired.

Chocolate Ice Box cake can go back on menus again for those summer meals with light main course. Use either lady fingers or strips of sponge cake for the base of the cake.

Veal is a simple and economical meat, but elegant if properly prepared in this chilled loaf style:

*Jellied Veal Loaf.
1 veal knuckle
1 pound veal shoulder
1 onion
2 eggs
9 pimiento olives
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Have the veal knuckle sawed in 3 or 4 places. Simmer the knuckle, veal, onion and seasonings in water, cover until veal is tender, about 2 hours. Chop veal fine. Garnish the bottom of the loaf pan with sliced hard-cooked eggs and sliced pimiento. Add chopped veal. Strain the broth and cook until reduced to 1 cupful. Pour over meat, add salt and Worcestershire sauce. Press meat firmly into pan. Chill. Unmold and serve with preserved fruit and cole slaw in lettuce cups.

A sauce to go with fish or vegetables is Hollandaise. Here is a quick-made recipe:

Hollandaise Sauce.
4 eggs
1/2 cup melted butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Stir egg yolks, adding melted butter gradually. Season with salt and paprika. Add boiling water, stirring constantly. Place in double boiler and cook until thickened. Remove from fire. Add lemon juice and serve immediately.

To Hollandaise sauce to serve over fish, add one of the following:

1/2 cup chopped pimiento olives
1/2 cup capers
1/2 cup chopped tart pickles

Real Diamonds Are Cold to Touch; Electrify If Rubbed

The war has created a greater demand than ever for diamonds. With a little care, a genuine stone can be distinguished from an imitation by its touch. A real stone will always feel cold, whereas an imitation one feels warm. If a diamond is rubbed with a cloth until it has been warmed by friction it becomes charged with positive electricity. An imitation stone will not.

A tourmaline or a topaz, if treated in the same way, also becomes charged with positive electricity, while amber becomes negatively charged.

Diamonds are of four distinct colors. The most valuable, absolutely colorless, are "gem" stones, and are known as "white" diamonds. The second grade has a distinct bluish tinge, the third yellow and the fourth brown.

Pattern No. 8664 is in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14, dress, requires 2 1/2 yards of 35 or 39-inch material; jacket, 1 1/2 yards.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
 You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
 Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

The reason for the great demand for tires and other rubber products for military motor equipment is evident when it is realized that today's infantry divisions require 3,500 ordnance vehicles of 160 different varieties. The same size outfit in World War I was equipped with 4,400 horses and 153 ordnance motor vehicles.
 Because of the poor condition of tires and other parts, 43 per cent more cars had breakdowns and had to be towed from the tunnels beneath New York's Hudson River in 1943 than in any peacetime year, although traffic was 28 per cent lower than in 1941.

Women's Club Has More Than 100 at Open House Event

More than 100 interested residents of the community attended the "Open House" event of the Ocean Beach Women's club, in the new club house that has been established at 2160 Bacon st. Officers and special committees of the club received the visitors and showed them around the rooms. Many comments of praise were heard for the way the building is arranged. Floral decorations for the event were largely dahlias and gladioli, the gift of the Mission Beach Women's club.

A feature that attracted special interest were the original paintings shown by Miss Jean Rittenhouse, a charter member, and the one to whom the club is indebted for the three lots on which the building was placed. An attractive table of books was shown by Mrs. R. J. Long, chairman, and Mrs. Paul W. Farrar, co-chairman, of the literature department. Other departments also were attractively represented, including a display of crocheted slippers and balls of yarn by the Red Cross department of which Mrs. Morris Fried is chairman. Punch and wafers were served the visitors, Mrs. C. H. Woolley being in charge.

The building has had an interesting career from the time it was first built and located on Newport and used as a church. Since then it has been used also for public school classroom and cafeteria purposes. This was the fourth time the structure had been moved, reports Mrs. C. W. Early, the president, the building having previously been located twice on Newport, once on Santa Monica and once on the grounds of the elementary school.

Royal Neighbors of Ocean Beach held their first meeting Friday in their new quarters at the Women's club house, 2160 Bacon st., and enjoyed a social hour and refreshments. Mrs. Veda Moss and Mrs. Jo Edwards were admitted to membership. They will meet the first and third Friday of each month.

John D. Penniman And Miss Margaret Schrank Married

Mr. and Mrs. Guy V. Penniman, 4972 Voltaire st., announce the marriage Sunday last of their son, John D. Penniman, and Miss Margaret Schrank, daughter of Mrs. T. A. Shrank of Pottsville, Texas. The wedding was held in the Methodist church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with the Rev. J. F. Roberts officiating, in the presence of the members of the immediate family and of a few intimate friends.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. C. B. West of Ocean Beach, as matron of honor, and the groom by Walter E. Phillips, also of Ocean Beach. For the ceremony, the bride wore a dusty rose crepe dress with black accessories and her flowers were a white orchid corsage. The matron of honor wore gray crepe and black accessories and had pink carnations for her flowers. Mrs. Penniman, mother of the groom, wore a flowered sheer dress and her flowers were white gladioli.

Following their return from a brief honeymoon trip to the mountains, the couple will go to housekeeping at 4747 Cape May ave. Both are employed at the Consolidated aircraft plant, he for the past three years and she for the past two and a half years. The groom graduated from Herbert Hoover high school in San Diego and the bride from the Pottsville high school.

Guests at the wedding other than the immediate relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Barnes and Mr. Barnes' mother, all of Kensington, and Mrs. Clifford Brooks of Ocean Beach.
